

INTERIM LEADERSHIP

Are you facing a leadership transition? What does that mean for your programs and ability to keep functioning at a professional level? Can you continue to meet community expectations as well as your own? Searching for a qualified new leader with the personality and experience your organization needs can often be a long and arduous process lasting weeks if not months. Can an experienced nonprofit management expert assist you during this transition and search process?

At MacIntyre Associates, we see a transition in leadership as an excellent opportunity to assess your strengths, needs, opportunities, and resources. We can also “pick up the ball” with ongoing development activity, grant submissions and donor appeals so that your philanthropic revenue doesn’t suffer.

Our services include but do not need to be limited to:

- Staff management/supervision where appropriate
- Communication with key constituencies
- Regular updates to the Board
- Continuity and cooperative oversight of annual giving and internal development functions
- Project management
- Assessment of operations/functioning and recommendations for improvement
- Assistance with screening employee prospects
- Support a seamless transition for the new Director
- Consult with the new Director on strategic developments that have occurred during the transition
