

Wright Horne

Senior Associate

Wright Horne is a development professional with over ten years' experience. He has worked "in the trenches" of development offices, creating and implementing annual fund campaigns, staging fundraising and friendraising events, marketing planned and legacy giving, managing capital campaigns from the ground up, and preparing the ground for future campaigns.

He has worked with both secular and faith communities, most recently with the Delaware Historical Society, first as the Chief Advancement Officer, and then managing their $6.6 million capital campaign. Wright has also worked for Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends as their Advancement and Communications officer. In this position, Wright served as advisor on development, governance and communications matters to the 115 Quaker meetings in the Philadelphia region.

Wright also served as Executive Director of Friends Rehabilitation Program, a Quaker affordable housing non-profit in Philadelphia. He currently serves as Senior Advancement Officer for Friends Home in Kennett as they consider their next role in the community, and assess the resources available to support that new role.

In his full and varied career, Wright has worked in hospitals, newspapers, computer software and hardware companies, woodworking enterprises, and living history museums.
